

UI and UX for training notebook documentation

1. Colours

The website's training and note-taking section is characterized by a blend of blue and navy blue hues, fostering focus and professionalism. These colors represent clarity and organization, essential for effective training and note management. The addition of violet accents adds vibrancy and engagement, enhancing readability and user interaction. Together, this palette creates a visually appealing and functional experience. Blue is also my favourite colour, so from the start I was thinking about using it.

2. Buttons

I've designed the buttons to visually stand out against the blue background of the page. I've also paid attention to their visibility when clicked and their state when disabled, as I believe in providing clear feedback to users about the actions they're taking on the site.

3. Fonts

When it comes to font selection, I've opted for readability by choosing "Roboto" for regular text. For headlines, I've gone for a more intriguing font that aligns with the overall context of the website.

4. Idea of start-page

It's only an idea of look, can change in the future.
